

When buying activated carbon from China, consider the following 6 tips to help you find high-quality, reasonably priced products:

1. Supplier selection:

Background check: Choose a reputable supplier and check its reputation and customer reviews in the industry. Or ask their old customers for verification. And whether the supplier specializes in the activated carbon field.

2. Professional and efficient salesperson:

Choosing a professional salesperson with smooth communication skills can not only improve efficiency and save a lot of time, but also better control quality for customers and provide professional advice when problems arise.

3. Product quality control:

Sample testing: Before purchasing in large quantities, ask suppliers for samples and test them to ensure that their product quality meets your needs.

Quality assurance: Sign a quality assurance agreement with the supplier to clarify the technical indicators and quality requirements of the product. Test at the factory before shipment or preferably at a Chinese port. If the test is qualified, then ship it. If it is unqualified, it will be reduced in price or returned depending on the situation

4. Price comparison:

Inquiry: Inquire for quotations from multiple suppliers and compare their quotes and conditions. Understand the cost structure and choose within the price range. If the price is obviously lower than the market price, there must be something wrong.

5. Logistics and transportation:

Transportation method: There is a sea freight identification report, self-heating report, and MSDS to ensure smooth shipment.

6. After-sales service:

*After-sales guarantee: Choose a supplier that provides perfect after-sales service to ensure that it can be solved in time when there is a problem with the product.

*Long-term cooperation: Establishing a long-term cooperative relationship with the supplier will help you get more discounts and better services.

With these 6 tips, you can more effectively purchase high-quality activated carbon products that meet your needs from China.

Contact us :

Heycarb activated carbon henan company

Address : Binhu International City, Erqi District, Zhengzhou City, Henan Province

E-mail: info@heycarbons.com

Mob/Whatsapp: 18037885195